Regulators, Legislators Taking Action on Unproven Stem Cell “Treatments”

Dec 06, 2017

The scientific and clinical communities have long been troubled by clinics operating around the world that market unproven stem cell “treatments” directly to patients. It is particularly distressing that people often go to these clinics for relief or a cure for an intractable disease or injury, and can end up paying thousands of dollars for products that are not approved for use as advertised, have not been scientifically tested to know if they work, and can put their health in jeopardy.
